mockarchive.com

Mock Archive is an independent practice platform. A Scholar Donkey project.

Step-by-step: how to give an exam

1 STEP

Open the website

Go to mockarchive.com on any device.

- It is completely free. There is no signup, no login and no payment.
- Works on phone, tablet and desktop. Use "Add to Home Screen" in your browser to install it like an app.
- Tap the sun/moon icon in the top bar to switch between light and dark mode. It remembers your choice.

* Tip: the purple BETA strip at the top means new tests are still being added. Some exams may be incomplete.

2 STEP

Find your exam

Use the menu, the exam list or the popular exams on the home page.

- Open the Exams menu in the top bar to see every exam, grouped by category (India and abroad).
- Or open All Exams and search by name, for example JEE, NEET, SSC, UPSC, Banking, GATE, CAT, IELTS or GRE.
- Each exam page explains the pattern, syllabus and eligibility, and lists its mock tests.

* Tip: read the exam pattern first so the marking and timing in the mock feel familiar.

3 STEP

Pick a mock test

Choose a full-length paper from the Mock Tests page or your exam page.

- Every card shows the number of questions, the duration and the mode: Full CBT or Sectional CBT.
- Full CBT (like JEE): one overall timer and you can move freely between questions and sections.
- Sectional CBT (like SSC and Banking): each section has its own timer and sections run in order.
- Click Start Test to open the General Instructions screen.

* Tip: start with one paper at real exam timing to set your baseline score.

STEP

Read the General Instructions

This screen works like the real exam portal. Take a minute to read it.

- Choose your language: English or Hindi. You can switch later from inside the test.
- Learn the question palette colours: grey = not visited, orange = not answered, green = answered, purple = marked for review, purple with a tick = answered and marked for review.
- Check the marking scheme and, for sectional papers, the section-wise timing.
- Type your candidate name. It appears on the exam screen and your result PDF and is stored only on your device.
- Tick the declaration and click Proceed. The test opens in full screen.

* Tip: answered and marked for review questions are still counted for evaluation.

STEP

Attempt the test in CBT mode

Everything works the way it does in a real computer-based exam.

- Timer: a live countdown runs at the top. When it reaches zero the test ends by itself.
- Palette: tap any number to jump straight to that question. On phones, use the Questions button for the slide-up palette.
- Buttons: Save & Next, Clear Response, Save & Mark for Review, and Mark for Review & Next.
- Sections: switch using the section tabs. In sectional papers use Submit Section and remember unused time does not carry over.
- Tools: view instructions, the question paper or the marking scheme any time, and toggle full screen.

* Tip: skip hard questions, mark them for review and come back if time remains.

STEP

Submit your test

Finish when you are ready, or let the timer end it.

- Click Submit Test in the palette panel (or Submit Section on sectional papers).
- A confirmation box appears so you do not submit by accident. Press OK to confirm.
- Your answers and timer are calculated in your browser and are never sent to a server.

* Tip: use the last few minutes to check your marked-for-review questions.

STEP

Read your scorecard

The result screen appears the moment you submit.

- See your marks, percentage, accuracy, correct, wrong and unattempted counts.
- Subject-wise and section-wise tables show where you gained and lost marks.
- Time stats show the time you spent, plus your quickest and slowest questions.
- Click Review Answers to see every question with your answer, the correct answer and time taken.
- Click Download Result PDF to save a full report. An Explanation PDF is available where provided.

* Tip: spend at least as long reviewing the result as you spent attempting the test.

STEP

Analyse and improve

A mock only helps if you learn from it.

- Label every lost mark: concept gap, calculation slip, misread question or time pressure.
- Keep an error notebook and revise it every week.
- Track your trend across five to ten mocks instead of reacting to a single score.
- Follow the 10-week plan: baseline, fix and drill, speed and stamina, then final revision.

* Tip: need an exam or paper added, or found an error? Email mockarchive@outlook.com.

Features you get

Exam-day habits that raise your score

Week 1-2

Baseline

Take one full mock cold to find weak sections.

Week 3-6

Fix and drill

Study weak topics, one full mock every week.

Week 7-10

Speed and stamina

Two mocks a week at real timing.

Last 2 weeks

Revise

No new topics. Error notebook, formulas, lighter mocks.

Do this

- Take each mock in one sitting, at real exam timing, with no phone and no pauses.
- Read the General Instructions every time. Marking schemes differ between exams.
- Do a first pass on the questions you know, mark the rest for review, then return.
- Watch the section timers in sectional papers. Unused time does not carry over.
- After submitting, review every question, including the ones you got right by luck.

Common questions

Is it really free?
Yes. Every mock test is free with no account or payment.

Do I need to sign up?
No. Tests run in your browser with no login.

Is my data saved anywhere?
No. Answers, timer and score stay in your browser and are not stored on our servers.

Can I use it on my phone?
Yes. The whole site and test interface are responsive.

Why does it say BETA?
The site is still growing. New tests are added regularly and some sections may be incomplete.

How do I request an exam or report an error?
Email mockarchive@outlook.com or use the Contact page.

Ready to practise?

Open mockarchive.com, pick your exam and start the clock. Good luck!
